Quality, a fashionable and fun item, and maybe a discount?

Burberry Handbags have been around for a long time. In fact, the Burberry company has been in business since 1856 when the founder opened a outfitters shop in England. There they made one of the first trench coats available. Later, they were commissioned to design and make new uniforms for the English army. They developed a type of fabric that would withstand water and cold. So much so that explorers of the North Pole were outfitted in Burberry coats. It wasn't until the 1960's did they expand beyond the realm of coats into scarves, umbrellas, and luggage. And, they kept going in development. Burberry would keep expanding their line to include all types of clothing, Burberry purses, and even a signature fragrance. Just this year they opened their first Russian store. This long history of innovation shows how Burberry handbags have come to be.
